

Real vs synthetic running overlay across settings

Aligned representative running windows (shape-normalized)

All curves are individually z-scored and circularly shifted by max correlation. Raw unified uses a known worst sample to expose the failure mode.

Amplitude sanity check for the selected curves

Qualitative comparison only: generated windows are not paired predictions of the real window.